President's Message

I was surprised and bothered recently when a friend who is a Christian minister and a fine person used the word "humanist" hesitantly as if it were a bad thing and synonymous with atheist. As usual, I didn't think of a good reaction till long past the moment, so I'll use it on you.

Humanists make no assertions about deity. A humanist may believe in a god or gods as seems most appropriate. What humanists do believe however is that it's none of our business to direct the actions of heavenly beings by praise to an insecure god who needs reassurance; pleas to a vengeful god; or instruction to an indecisive god. We regard the task of the humanist to be humanity. Our work and influence can only be here on earth and our duty is to make the best job of it that we can. We can't stand around waiting for a superbeing to settle our problems, so we better deal with the mess we humans have made ourselves.

So let's keep on fighting social injustice and ecological disaster in the name of humanism, Unitarian Universalism or whatever else can keep our commitment alive.

Happy Spring (soon, I hope).

I believe I have no prejudices whatsoever. All I need to know is that a man is a member of the human race. That's bad enough for me.
